

2019 Membership Information

Overview:

100 Women Who Care Clay County is a group of philanthropic women, coordinated by the Clay County Community Foundation, an affiliate of the Wabash Valley Community Foundation. The group is designed to provide financial support for local charitable causes while creating a sense of community.

Membership Agreement:

Members commit to donate $500 per year of membership. The first $100 is invested in an endowment fund in the Community Foundation that will be used to serve future needs of Clay County for years to come.

The remaining $400 is used to support the 4 nonprofits selected by the members throughout the year ($100 at each meeting). Members agree to honor their commitment even if they are not fond of the charity chosen. If they are unable to attend a quarterly meeting, they will give their check (which will serve as their proxy vote) to another member to deliver on their behalf, send their check to the Community Foundation or pay electronically via Wabash Valley Gives (www.wabashvalleygives.com/100wwcclay).
